

PATCHWORK FARM

YOLO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

COMPANY

BUILDING A DREAM

Patchwork Farm is 27 acres in northern California's enchanting Capay Valley. It is home to flourishing lavender fields, a patch of fresh, organic produce, and acres of garbanzo beans. It is also the realization of Sherri Wood's lifelong dream, planted during childhood, nurtured across the years, and, finally, brought to life in 2017.

PRODUCTS

FARM FRESH TO YOU

Depending on the cultivar, Patchwork Farm's lavender may be used to add lavender's unique, subtle flavoring to foods and beverages. Our fragrance-based cultivars, such as Grosso and Super, find their way into essential oils and other products designed to support health or to simply soothe and refresh the skin.

Lavender is the most commonly used essential oil. Organic essential oils are steam-distilled from plants that have been grown under the USDA National Organic Program (NOP) standard of organic farming. That means that NO toxic and persistent pesticides were used during the plant's lifespan.

FUTURE

OUR HOME IN YOLO COUNTY, CA

"Patchwork Farm is the place where my dream came true. I invite you to visit, draw in a breath of fresh country air, and, just maybe, find inspiration for a little dream of your own"

Owner & FarmHer

The Food Front has its ties to Capay Valley and the rest of Yolo County. As Patchwork Farm continues to grow, our focus for the next few years will be to showcase the region in our products.
